

Chris Richbell artist

Chris is a member and regular exhibitor with the Northampton Town & County Art Society and serves on their Council. She paints mainly in watercolour or acrylic, and sometimes with mixed media or pastels

She is part of a group of painters from all over the country that annually enjoy painting together in Walberswick on the Suffolk coast. Painting outside whatever the weather, brings a whole new meaning to watercolour!

Chris has won prizes locally and nationally with two awards from the Royal Watercolour Society in their 21st Century Open Exhibition that led to a very successful solo exhibition in London.

She has exhibited with the New English Art Club at the Mall Gallery London, at the Bankside Gallery London, The Chapel Gallery, The Courtyard Gallery, The Gallery D'Art Dartmouth, The Primrose Gallery, Alfred East Gallery, The Guildhall Gallery, Woburn Abbey, The Castle Wellingborough, Lamport Hall, Delapre Abbey and has had work accepted by the Royal Academy. Private and corporate bodies including the Savoy Group have purchased her paintings.

Her main artistic influences are Turner, Piper and Vilhelm Hammershoi. Her current passion is the interplay of light and reflections, which has encouraged her to produce a very successful series of wet London paintings. She has also enjoyed painting the atmosphere of pubs and restaurants looking at strong light on tables and people in dark interiors.
